

In the first offering of its kind, East View presents the Global Census Archive® (GCA), an innovative program to collect officially published census-related materials from around the world.

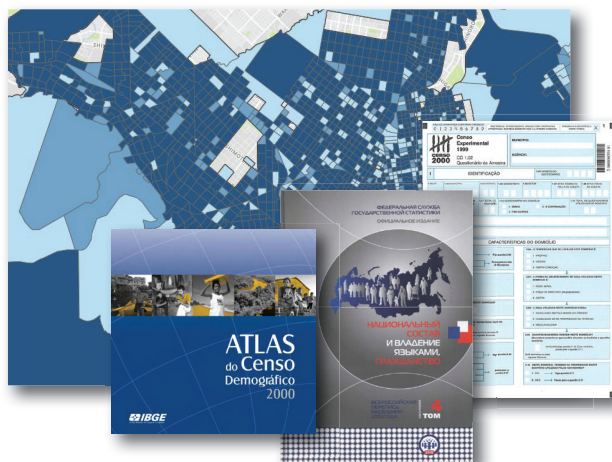

This global collection contains GIS census data (GCA-GIS) as well as all available census publications associated with a given census (GCA-PUBS), such as official results, questionnaires, methodological works, public campaign literature, and other census ephemera, as well as an East View-produced census catalog to provide historical context and serve as a finding aid.

WHY GLOBAL CENSUS ARCHIVE?

Data from published census authorities are unusable for systematic analysis because they are locked in thousands of paper documents, PDF files, and rare books dispersed across hundreds of websites and libraries.

Meanwhile, authoritative GIS data output is often not usable without extensive set-up and significant database management and programming experience.

East View provides a centralized publications platform and uniform GIS format for these materials, making a wide range of census assets easily accessible for discovery and analysis.
